Jesus calls us to seek out "deserted" places and times where and when we can realize the possibilities of bringing restorative justice and reconciling peace to our families and communities. From the clamor of the marketplace and the demands of our calendars and "to do" lists, we need time and space to hear the voice of God speaking in the quiet of our hearts, to put aside our angers and fears, our egos and need for control, in order to re-center our lives in the things of God and re-create our world in the compassion of his Christ.
